Background

Wolfgang Lauss studied law at the Johannes Kepler University in Linz and gained a doctorate in law in 1985.

In 1990, he passed the lawyer's examination with very good marks and has been a lawyer since 1990 and a managing partner for SAXINGER since 1991, primarily at the offices in Linz and Vienna. He also gained his licence to practise as a lawyer in the Czech Republic in 2003.

Wolfgang Lauss is a university lecturer at the Johannes Kepler University in Linz and a lecturer for the university course in market-oriented international business.

He is also a member of several Boards of Trustees of foundations.

Expertise

Wolfgang Lauss advises domestic and foreign companies in particular on corporate and corporation law issues. He has substantial experience in the structuring of corporations, starting with the creation of organisation concepts, the planning and implementation of all start-up steps, the accompaniment of merger registrations under cartel law to the conceptual planning and implementation of modern corporate governance and compliance structures.

He also advises on national and international M&A transactions and on capital market transactions, in particular IPOs and SPOs or private placements.

In addition, Wolfgang Lauss advises public law entities during privatisations, outsourcing projects and PPP projects including the resolution of any issues related to subsidy and public procurement law.

He advises on the corporate structuring of family-run businesses, including the conceptual planning of syndicate agreements and succession and exit regulations as well as private foundation models.

Dr. Wolfgang Lauss gives talks and regularly publishes articles on particular on topics relating to company law and private foundation law and is a university lecturer and speaker at the Johannes Kepler University in Linz.

He is in the Examination committee of the Austrian Chamber of Chartered Public Accountants and Tax Consultants and a member of several foundation associations.

Wolfgang Lauss also holds a licence to practise as a lawyer in the Czech Republic and serves clients, in particular in the Czech Republic, Slovakia and Hungary. He is also responsible for the SAXINGER China Desk in Austria.
